

This painting is called a watercolor. A watercolor painting is when paint is mixed with water. The colors can sometimes look very light or see-through.

"Salmon Fishermen," Ogden Pleissner, 1955, Watercolor

Besides water, what else do you see in this painting?

If you could paint the world in whatever colors you want to, what would it look like?

